

ABSTRACT

A beverage modification system having a container, a cap, a pouch and a pouch opener. A modification composition is contained within the pouch. The cap, containing the pouch, is secured onto the opening of a container containing a fruit-flavored liquid beverage composition. When the pouch opener is activated, the modification composition is released from the pouch and mixes with the liquid beverage composition to modify the color and flavor of the liquid beverage, resulting in a modified beverage composition.